School Fairs in Alberta.

Red Cross Mandate From The League of Nations

The Annual Appeal of the Canadian Red Cross is once again before the public, who are asked to express their interest in the humanitarian work of the society in the practical way of joining as members, and by contributions in cash. Although nearly eight years have passed since Amistice, and in spite of the fact that Red Cross has been functioning vigorously during the whole of that time, there are still some people who have but a hazy idea of what Red Cross is all about, and where the money goes.

The Head Office of the Society has met that need for information in an excellent little pamphlet, which presents concisely the aims and services of the organization.

To quote this leaflet: "Red Cross was not ended when the bugles blew 'Cease Fire' at the Armistice." At the Versailles Conference it was determined that organized Red Cross Societies could give further invaluable aid to sick and suffering humanity. In consequence, the Covenant of the League of Nations includes this Article XXV:—"The members of the League agree to encourage and promote the establishment and co-operation of duly authorized voluntary national Red Cross organizations having as purposes 'The Improvement of Health, the Prevention of Disease, and the Mitigation of Suffering throughout the World.'"

The Canadian Red Cross Society is striving to fulfil this obligation and asks the citizens to endorse its efforts by enrolling themselves as members.

It's Never Too Late to Mend

Notwithstanding the fact that our municipal authorities purchased a main-grader this year, Coleman's main thoroughfares still continue to remain in a very unsatisfactory condition. As The Journal has pointed out on previous occasions, the present policy of attempting to make good roads by throwing a quantity of loose gravel and dirt on our thoroughfares is not only a retrograde one but a very expensive one in the long run. A coating of tar or asphalt on main highways is what is required. A start in this direction should have been made years ago, and the thousands of dollars spent in maintenance of dirt roads could then have gone into extending the hard surfaced roadway.

Alberta's Tourist Traffic.

Alberta's three national parks—Jasper, Banff and Waterton Lakes, received nearly $24,000,000 from tourist traffic in 1925, stated J. M. Wardle, chief engineer Canadian national parks, in an address to the Canadian Good Roads Association convention at Edmonton recently. In 1925, 333,400 people had visited Canada's various national parks, and by August of this year, that total had already been reached for 1926. Jasper, Banff and Waterton Lakes got 148,000 of these tourists of whom 87,000 came by rail, and 61,000 by auto. 80,000 of this total were Canadians.

Mount Revelstoke National Park, British Columbia, has been connected with the outside world by the opening up of a motor highway from Okanagan valley to Revelstoke, and many motorists have already taken advantage of this new artery of travel.

Over $10,000,000 of building has been commenced in Greater Winnipeg this year.

Red Cross Appealing for Funds

Saturday, October 30th, has been set aside by the Alberta Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society as the day on which an entertainment or event of some kind, should be held wherever there is a branch of the society and the proceeds sent to headquarters at Calgary. The Red Cross in Alberta needs $40,000 to carry on its work of mercy in this province until next July. If the Coleman branch are not in a position at this time to stage some form of entertainment, they could at least raise some of the money required by an active campaign for members at $1.00 each. The Red Cross is doing a splendid work in Alberta and deserves the hearty support of all.

A Worth While Show

About seventy five thespians from Coleman were in attendance at the Opera House, Blairmore, Monday evening of this week, and one and all thoroughly enjoyed "So This is London?" put on by the Allen Players. There was not a dull moment during the entire three acts. Laughter followed laugh in an continuous stream as the audience enjoyed the clashing of English and American wit. Every member of the cast proved their selves artists of the first rank and their presentation of this mirth-provoking comedy will long be remembered with pleasure.

The superintendent was later relating this amusing incident to members of the school board.

Well Known Resident of Crow's Nest Found Dead

In the early evening of Friday last the dead body of Sam Sparham, postmaster and merchant of Crow's Nest, was found near McGinn's sawmill. The deceased, who has resided in Crow's Nest for the past fifteen years, has been more or less dependant for the past month following the sudden death of Mrs. Sparham, who was found dead in bed on the morning of September 14th last.

Near the body was found a rifle, and apparently suicide was committed. The deceased leaves a son, 14 years of age, as well as his aged parents who reside at Macleod. Mr. Sparham originally came from England and has been well known and respected throughout the Crow's Nest Pass during long years of residence here. The funeral was held on Sunday.

Sterling, provincial chief inspector of mines, he will commence an investigation into the recent disaster there, with a view to making such recommendations as will minimize the possibility of recurrence.

Completing Graveled Highways.

A complete gravelled highway from Edmonton to the international boundary by the end of 1927 is a possibility, according to the program of the Alberta highway dept. The completion of the gravelled highway from Edmonton to Calgary will be carried out next summer, and the completion of the road south from Calgary to the boundary, some of which has already been gravelled, will be made next year too, if possible.

Houses built of Canadian lumber after a Canadian pattern are to be given a trial in England. Three pairs of such houses are to be provisionally erected for the County Council on its new estate at Abchurch, under the supervision of the Council's architect, who has made a study of wooden houses throughout the world. The chairman of the Council says the main trouble with regard to the acceptance of Canadian houses is in getting the prices to compare favorably with those of other countries, especially the Scandinavian countries.

Local and General Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McBurney returned Wednesday afternoon by motor from a three weeks' trip to Calgary and points north.

Mr. H. McLeod left Tuesday on a business trip to Mercoal, Alta. Mrs. Arthur Graham, 2nd street, was the hostess at a delightful bridge party on Wednesday evening. Honors were carried off by Mrs. O. E. S. Whitehead, Mrs. F. G. Graham, and Mrs. Geo. Pattinson.

Messrs. T. Muir and W. Griffiths left last week on a trip to the coast.

The Alberta government has for some time been making strong representations to the H. C. Public Works department for a new road to connect up with the highway which has lately been constructed almost to the boundary line in Alberta. While the road from Michael to Crow's Nest is in very good condition, it is narrow and full of more or less dangerous curves, and it is thought that the B. C. engineers might easily pick out a much better location for the road.

Mr. W. Johnston left Monday on his annual Autumn big game hunt in the mountains north west of Coleman. Wes. usually brings home the bacon when he returns from his pilgrimage into the wilds and it is more than likely this year will prove no exception to this rule.

After holding office for a little over three years the Ferguson government of Ontario has decided to appeal to the electorate on a policy of government control of liquor sales coupled with local option. The legislature was dissolved on Monday of this week with voting to take place on December 1st.

Miss B. Smythe, of Vancouver, spent a few days the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rippon this week.

Invitations are shortly to be issued for this big event, and the Brother "Billie" who has arrangements in hand are sparing no pains to make this their first ball, one of the events of the season.

Kimberley, B. C., has decided to establish a public playground for the children. Next to good schools a properly supervised community playground ranks first among the institutions of any progressive community.

Jack Dempsey was paid more money for 30 minutes boxing in Philadelphia recently than the premier of Canada would receive in a lifetime. How is that for a triumph of sport over work?

Alberta's Sale of Bonds.

Reid, at a price of 92 7/8 yielding an interest rate of 4.96 1/2 per cent., which, according to the present condition of the bond market, was deemed to be an exceptionally good price.

Mrs. W. Wilson received painful injuries to his chest as a result of being crushed between some coal cars and timber, while at work in the McGillivray mine last Thursday night. ## FINAL CROP PAYMENT TO BE MADE BY POOL

Winnipeg.—A total of $3,550,000, representing a final payment of five cents per bushel on the 1925-26 crop, will be paid to farmers in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, wheat pools. It was announced following sessions of the central selling agency at the Winnipeg offices.

One dollar per bushel was the initial payment made for the 1925-26 crop year, and this was followed by an interim payment of 20 cents per bushel and another interim payment of 20 cents, making, with the five cents now given, a total payment of $1.45.

J. A. McPhail, president of the Central Selling Agency, has issued the following statement:

"The final wheat pool payment for the 1925-26 crop year is being made from the three provincial offices, a central selling price for the year on one Northern wheat basis. For the year, after carrying charges and administrative costs have been deducted, it is $1.45 per bushel.

"A total of $3,550,000 is being returned from the central office, to be disposed by the three provincial pools.

"Provincial administrative expenses, elevator and commercial reserve deductions, etc., will have to be taken from the amount returned to each province before distribution is made to the grower."

The officers of the board were re-elected: Mr. McPhail, as president; H. W. Woods, Edmonton, as vice-president; and E. B. Ramsey, Edmonton, as acting secretary, while Messrs. McPhail, Wood and Collin H. McPhail were re-elected the executive.

It was announced that statements will be issued in due course by each of the wheat pools with regard to the final payment for the 1925-26 crop year.

May Accept New Appointment

Hon. A. P. McNab Offered Place on Saskatchewan Local Government Board

Saskatoon.—Hon. A. P. McNab, senior member of the Saskatchewan Ministry of Public Works and Minister of Inland Revenue, has announced that he had been offered a place on the local government board in Saskatchewan, and that he had declined the offer. Mr. McNab said he had been given the offer of consideration for a month and an announcement as to his decision will be made soon.

Should Mr. McNab resign his seat in the legislature, as will be necessary if he accepts the appointment to the local government board, it will necessitate a by-election in Saskatchewan City and will, for the time at least, leave this city without cabinet representation.

The other members of the Local Government Board are: S. P. Giesch, and J. N. Bayne, both of whom hail from Southern Saskatchewan. There has been for years a feeling in Saskatchewan and Northern Saskatchewan, that at least one member of the local government board should be from the northern half of the province.

Competitive Cable Rates

Would Establish Direct Service to Canada For British News

Ottawa.—"If the governments of this Dominion and the United Kingdom would only see their way to establish a competitive rate on cables between London and this country, I would have to this country a direct service for British news," declared Sir Roderick Jones, chairman of Reuters' News Agency, in the course of an address before the Canadian Club.

The establishment of a competitive cable rate between London and Canada, which would enable a greater volume of British news to be brought to this country direct instead of by New York, would, stated Sir Roderick, be a fine act of public policy and a very beneficial one from an Imperial point of view.

Canadian Ambassador Question

London.—With a view to correcting an apparently wrong impression in Canada, The Morning Post says that there can be no possible objection to the appointment of a Canadian diplomat resident in Washington to conduct Canadian business with the United States. Such an appointment, however, the paper states, is an innovation which would involve political difficulties in regard to the whole question of the empire's foreign policy. It is this aspect that arouses discussion in the Post.

Stay Of Execution

Russell Scott Is Again Saved From The Gallows

Chicago.—Forty-eight hours before the time set for his execution and for the third time in 15 months, the hanging of Russell Scott for the murder of Joseph Maurer in a drug store holdup was averted.

The state supreme court of Springfield ordered a stay still it can review the proceedings in his last sanity hearing, in which he was found sane after he had spent a year in a state asylum.

The man, who was a vaudeville actor at 20, a Canadian corporation head at 26, and a boxing promoter at 33, seemed a little moved at the news of his new lease of life. "So many times he has been jerked from the gallows back to temporary safety that the methods by which his execution has been four times postponed since 1924 have become largely incomprehensible to him."

Making Unique World Tour

Young Danish Sportsman Is Making Journey on Bicycle

Sydney, Australia.—Karl Thorndorf, a young Danish sportsman who is on a bicycle trip around the world, has arrived in Sydney.

From here he will continue his route by steamer to New Zealand and thence to South America with the intention of traversing the entire American continent from South to North on his wheel.

Since starting from Copenhagen, over a year ago he has pedaled through Europe, China, Japan, and Java, expecting to finish his unique world-tour in Copenhagen by 1928.

Canada Holds Envious Place

Stands Second in World in Development of Telephones

Montreal.—"Canada stands second in the world in telephone development," declared P. A. McPhail, Montreal, president of the Telephone Association of Canada, in his annual report presented at the opening session of the sixth annual convention of the association, which took place here.

"In 1925 there was 1,072,454 telephones in service in Canada, against 902,990 in 1921, which is an increase of 17.86," he continued.

"The total investment increased from $168,678,229 in 1921 to $193,851,378 in 1924.

"The question of transatlantic long distance telephone is still progressing."

Will Convene In December

Date of Sitting of B.C. Legislature Is Announced

Victoria.—British Columbia Legislature will be summoned for the annual session December 16 and will then adjourn until January 10. These dates have been announced by Premier Oliver after they had received the final approval of the cabinet.

The proceedings of December 16 will last less than an hour, it is expected. The House will be called into session after the reading of the address from the throne, following the program of the session to follow, the members will disperse until after the New Year.

United States Is Criticized

Pointed Placard Placed on Wall of League of Nations Building

Geneva.—Criticism of the United States was voiced in a placard which was found pasted on the marble slab in the wall of the League of Nations building which commemorates the memory of Woodrow Wilson as founder of the league.

The placard read: "In considering him as the founder of the League of Nations, President Wilson should be remembered as a personal enemy and not as president of the United States. The American people have done nothing to deserve that their president should be designated as the founder of the league."

Sinclair.—For use of the delegates attending the Imperial Conference in London, 100 boxes of snow apples have been shipped from here. It is believed Ontario is the only province using this method, to advertise Canadian apples. They were sent under Provincial Government supplies.

May Take Dispute To Higher Court

Alberta Act Fight May Go to Privy Council

Winnipeg.—The Ottawa correspondent of The Tribune says: The Department of Justice is taking steps to proceed with the reference to the Supreme Court in regard to the constitutionality of the Alberta Automobile Act as far as it relates to school funds and school lands. The case, however, will not come up before the winter sittings of the court unless a special hearing is arranged meanwhile.

It is considered very improbable that the projected legislation returning to the province its natural resources will be proceeded with until the court decides on this question and if it is possible, judgment is expected at the Privy Council by one side or the other further delay would seem likely.

Governor-General At Work

Created a Viscount

Lord Byng of Vimy

London.—The Canadian Press has learned from an unofficial but authoritative source that Baron Byng of Vimy had been created Viscount.

The former governor-general of Canada was received by the king to day and he and Lady Byng later had lunch with their majesties.

The retired governor-general, who is 64 years of age, was created the first Baron Byng of Vimy in 1919, choosing the title in commemoration of the exploits of the Canadians in capturing Vimy Ridge while under his leadership. He commanded the Canadian Army Corps in France for a year.

Baron Byng holds many honors. He was made K.C.M.G. in 1915; K.C.B. in 1916; G.C.B. in 1919 and G.C.M.G. in 1924.

Find Gold In Volcano Dust

Russian Peasants Had Farms Destroyed by Recent Eruption

Berlin.—Working day and night as they panned gold from the dust of a recent volcanic outbreak, peasants of Kertch, Russia, on the Sea of Azov, are forgetting their farms that were destroyed and paying for another eruption.

When a supervolcanic eruption near Kertch discharged lava and volcanic dust recently the peasants fled in terror.

Upon returning they found that the dust contained appreciable quantities of gold. Thousands of them immediately sought to gain riches from what had been discharged.

Ban On U.S. Picture

Decide Not to Show Picture Showing British Escort of Troops

Renewed efforts declined to lift the ban on the United States film "Phantom of the Opera," the arrival of which a year ago caused a stiff protest in the press because British troops were used to escort it from Southampton to London, have failed.

The British Cinematograph Exhibition, which had been refused by the British Association, voted finally not to show the picture. Representatives of Lord Laemle, the producer, gave assurance that all parts of a film showing the British escort of troops had been turned over to the war office but the latter still stands by its declaration made last year that the use of the troops was brought about by a "clever, humiliating, advertising hoax."

BRITISH-ITALIAN TREATY SUBJECT OF CRITICISM

Geneva.—Declaring the Anglo-Italian treaty regarding spheres of economic influence in Abyssinia regards the past as a threat against the territorial integrity, which under article ten of the covenant, Great Britain and Italy are bound to respect, Ras Tafari in reply to the League of Nations note for further information has asked Secretary General Sir Eric Drummond to deposit in the league register the Abyssinian documents along with the Anglo-Italian treaty.

Repeating his previous arguments against the Anglo-Italian agreement, Ras Tafari says, "The Imperial Abyssinian government very naturally is troubled on realizing that two great powers have come to an understanding on their course of action toward a friendly country, which with them is a member of the League of Nations without informing their countrymen."

We interpret this as an indication of their intention to combine and exert economic advantages if the imperial government should consider that the interest of Abyssinia disallows that those advances should be withheld.

"As this interpreted the Anglo-Italian pact is incompatible with the terms of the covenant, since it constitutes an indirect attack against the secular territorial integrity and the political independence of Abyssinia, which under article ten Great Britain and Italy have undertaken to respect."

"Our only hope is that under article twenty they have no right to contract an agreement, but as they, of course, had no intention of violating that article their agreement could not have legal force; consequently it is null and void."

Ras Tafari then recapitulated Sir Austen Chamberlain's assurances in the House of Commons that there were no secret reserves, repeating directly the foreign minister's words that it was his intention to have Abyssinia's interpretation made part of the League of Nations' official treaty records.

GOOD RETURNS ATTRACTIVE.

British capital invested in Canada is stated to be approximately $2,545,000,000. United States capital invested in Canada amounts to approximately $2,800,000,000. Of recent years Americans have been putting more money into Canadian industries because of the fact that they have found it very profitable to do so. Following the war British capitalists have found need for their money at home and, therefore, American capital invested in Canada exceeds that of Great Britain. The fact that Americans find it profitable to invest their money in Canada is no cause for alarm. Canada can use American money or money from any source for that matter in the development of its vast resources, but it will continue to remain Canada regardless of the source from which money is obtained. Canada is going ahead with the development of its resources and industries and the opportunity is given to any person to invest his money if he feels that it will yield him good returns. In the meantime, the investments that are being made in Canada are giving employment to many of our people and the steady development that is going on is helping to make Canada a greater country. Canada is surely making rapid strides and capitalists with money to invest cannot find a better country in which to place it.—Canadian Elk.

Professor Phelps relates that when he was a boy he used to set type on a religious journal which became noted for its typographical errors and misplaced paragraphs. One day, in the column "Ministers and Churches," there appeared in the proof "Lillian Russell will wear tightie this winter." How it got there no one knew. The editor in disgust crossed out the line and wrote "Such is life!" on the margin. When the paper appeared it contained among the news of the clergy, the item about Miss Russell followed by the editorial comment, "Such is life!"—Exchange.

The Alberta school question is to go to the Supreme Court of Canada where it can be reviewed in a sane and orderly fashion without the intrusion of politics. There should be no quarrel with that method of disposing of the question. The sooner it is settled, and settled permanently, the sooner will Alberta and the Federal government be able to complete the transaction whereby our natural resources will come under Provincial control. Hasten the day.—Lethbridge Herald.

If Judge Mowat's legal decisions are as wide of the mark as his recent reported definition of a gentleman—"the son of a well-to-do, well-educated man whose father was a gentleman"—justice must be a stranger in that part of Ontario where this "gentleman" holds court.

Australian National Band Visits Canada

For the first time in history, the people of Australia have sent out a representative band to Canada. Selected from every state in the Commonwealth of Australia, this group of 25 expert musicians will make a comprehensive tour of the Dominion under the name of "The Australian National Band," giving concerts at the principal cities along the way. They came to Canada directly from England, where they competed in the famous English Band Contest at Manchester. This completed a lengthy engagement in England. Previous to this the band spent six weeks in South Africa and in all, including engagements in Australia and New Zealand, the band has been on tour for the past ten months. The Canadian tour opened September 28th at Quebec, where the musicians arrived over the Canadian Pacific steamship lines. The reception given to the band at the Ancient Capital was excellent. Complete arrangements for concerts across the Dominion had been made by Lieut. H. Gladstone Hill, director of publicity and manager of the Canadian tour. In Montreal the Australian Band was featured in the McGill University Reunion celebration on October 1st, to which function the band had been invited as guests. In the afternoon of the same day the band played for the march past of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, upon their visit to Montreal. One of the most noticeable features of the band is its versatility, grand opera, church music, and jazz, all being rendered with equal success and skill. When they cross Canada on the Canadian Pacific lines and sail for Australia from Vancouver they will have circled the globe.

Waterways of Prairie Provinces Of Great Commercial Importance In the Early Days of the West

The waterways of the prairie provinces have little commercial importance in the transportation systems of today. They are, however, points of the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, rich in the romance of history. The earliest explorers to reach the prairie came by canoe. The rapidly expanding fur trade soon created activity along the many water routes embraced within the limits of the province and made famous by centuries of use by canoe, York boat and scow. The Assiniboine, Qu'Appelle and Souris, with Manitoba's famous Red River, were for long years the highways of commerce and discovery for the adventures of New France who came by way of Lake Superior, or the traders of the Hudson's Bay Company striking in from York Factory, both anxious to extend the empire in securing the pelts of the prairies or gaining a foothold in the valley of the Missouri. The mighty Saskatchewan, most famous of all, and which gives its name to this province, is the outstanding river of the prairies of Canada. Two main branches, the north and the south, which with their tributaries constitute the entire drainage of three hundred miles of the eastern shore of the Rocky mountains, and below Prince Albert, enter lake Winnipeg.

For many years the Canadian Pacific was the only railway of Western Canada, and, as it crossed the southern parts of the prairies, the Saskatchewan river became the highway for the north. Flat-bottomed, stern-wheeled river boats plied regularly the waters of the main branch from Grand Rapids at Lake Winnipeg to Prince Albert, and thence to Ft. Pitt (now in ruins), and even up to Edmonton, in the adjoining province of Alberta. The south branch was also navigated past the present city of Saskatoon, around the bend, and up to the forks of the Red River, at the western boundary of the province, and sometimes even as far as Modoc Lake. Like the historic boats of the Mississippi, those of the Saskatchewan have almost disappeared, as the more speedy overland routes have encroached on their territory. The cattle, horse and freight rivers are tributaries now chiefly used in rafting logs to the mills.

Another famous waterway is the Churchill river. Colossal fortunes in fur were transported by this route. The Athabasca, which flows into the Clearwater and packing their burdens across the Athabasca, or "long" portage, followed this famous route to Hudson Bay. It is a decidedly picturesque route. The river, which retains its uniformity throughout, the Churchill becomes a series of crystal lakes, nestling among hills of granite, dotted with myriads of beautiful islands, and connected by short stretches of river proper. These usually contain rapids and falls, which caused the voyageurs to portage his canoe, and forbid the passage at any hazard of power boats. In places the meadows and fertile valley of the Saskatchewan are found low swamps of spruce and tamarac, or rugged hills of upheaved rocks, partly bare and partly wooded with groves of jack pine or clusters of larch.

Near the Saskatchewan-Manitoba boundary there is an alternative route, which the early traders usually traversed. Leaving the Churchill at Frog Portage, the way, by nearly south, following a chain of lakes leading to the Sturgeon-well river, thence by way of Anisk, Nanow and Cumberland lakes to join the Saskatchewan. This diversion brought the French traders to their ports at The Pas, and allowed the English to reach the water at York Factory by way of Hayes river, their principal route.

The main tributary of the Churchill above Frog portage is the Beaver river, a swift-flowing stream, heading near Lake Ellice, and flowing through a valley rich in timber and grazing lands. A short distance below the portage Hudson river enters the Churchill, flowing southward from the great lake whose name it bears.

The far northern waters of Saskatchewan offer the adventurer an interesting route leading from Hudson lake on the east to Athabasca lake on the west by way of Wollaston, Hatcher and Black lakes, Black River and Fond du Lac. The Cree river enters Black lake from the south, while the main canoe route, broken by numerous portages, leads to the home of the Eskimo, in the great Alaskan lands. Though not of great commercial importance, the northern water routes offer unparalleled attractions to the lover of the great lone

Annexing More Territory

Holland Wages Constant Battle With Sea and Land is Being Reclaimed. Holland, or the Netherlands, has long been a classic example of what can be achieved by successful industry and thrift. Much of the country has been reclaimed from the sea and required the protection of the famous dykes before it could be turned to profitable account. Now have the Dutch people been content to wage a constant battle with the waves in order to hold what has been gained. Soon they will acquire a new province by force of arms, but no European chancery will dispute the Dutch method of acquiring it. For it will be wrested not from some weaker state, but from Father Neptune's undersea domain.

Holland has had its own Iroquois region since the twelfth century. That expanse of salt water, about eighty-five miles long and from ten to forty-five miles broad, known as the Zuider Zee, was once dry except for a small inland lake. Throughout the centuries and centuries the sea kept cutting at it, sales kept blowing its loose, sandy soil away, and the whole topography of the country was altered.

Year after year with the skill, determination and patience characteristic of their race the Dutch have been fighting to regain their lost territory, foot by foot, inch by inch. Engineering operations of great complexity have been carried through to reclaim it. Great dykes have been constructed, altered, repaired and reinforced, in the main the effort has been successful, but the sea is an enemy that never weary and never becomes discouraged, and often in a few hours of rage it has been able to undo human achievements that cost heavy toil and much treasure.

The area to be reclaimed amounts to more than half a million acres, and is expected to provide support for fully half a million individuals. In the Netherlands is of considerable importance, fully justifying the expenditures involved.

How long it will take to finish the job cannot be foretold. It may take twenty years longer. The Dutch are not greatly worried about that. The Zuider Zee will not made into a week end, nor is it to be unmade swiftly.

Shoe Industry For Edmonton. Edmonton will soon have another industry added to its list. It is expected that the Universal Shoe Manufacturing Company will commence working about September 1st. The initial output will be approximately three hundred pairs daily, and it is reported that when operations are properly under way a tannery and a harness-making plant will be added.

Test Was Satisfactory. As a means of testing the packing of eggs, a crate full of eggs packed in regulation crates was allowed to fall from a plane 1,200 feet in the air, but not an egg was broken. A parachute was used in this test, but a crate dropped 110 feet without a parachute sustained the impact so well that only nine of thirty dozen were broken.

Canadian Farmers Out To Win

Will Try To Annex Grand Championship For Wheat at Chicago Grain Show. Encouraged by good crops and former successes, farmers from Western Canada will make a special effort toward sweeping the boards at the International Live Stock, Grain and Hay Show at Chicago next December.

Farmers in the Canadian West have been so much in the habit of carrying off the Grand Championship for wheat at the International that it was a sad blow last year when the coveted prize went to L. P. Yates, of Fish Lake, Montana. They are out this year to win their laurels back again. The world's wheat prize has been won by Canada 12 out of the 15 times it has been competed for.

Each of the Provincial Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, is offering supplementary cash prizes to winners from the province with a special honorarium of $150 for a champion and $100 for a first prize. Entries of horses and other live stock are being made from all three prairie provinces and will include the famous string of champion horses from the University of Saskatchewan that carried off the most coveted honors last year. Numbers of exhibits of wheat, barley, oats, flax, grass seed and peas are to be entered. The expenses of shipping the entries from Western Canada to Chicago are paid by the Provincial Governments.

J. C. Mitchell of Dalmah, Saskatchewan, three times winner of the world's wheat championship, is expected to be among the Canadian contestants again this year. He did not compete in 1925.

The world's wheat prize was won last year by L. P. Yates, with a sample of Marquis wheat, a variety that had its origin at the Canadian Government Experimental Farm at Ottawa in 1904. It is now the most popular hard red spring wheat grown, representing 50 per cent of the wheat crop of Canada and 50 per cent of the spring wheat grown in the United States.

The most notable exhibitor from Canada at the International Show will be L.H.H. the Prince of Wales with entries of pure bred cattle from his ranch at Pekkako, Alberta.

May Inaugurate Flying Service Of Physicians

Australia Considering Scheme to Serve Remote Bush Areas. Australia may be the first country in the world to inaugurate a flying service of physicians and dentists.

The National Commission on Health is considering a scheme by which airplane mail lines could help to bring rapid medical aid to any one dangerously ill in the remote bush areas.

The Australian Inland Mission of the League of Red Cross Societies is seeking to install a simple, standard type of wireless apparatus that may be worked effectively by the untrained in radio, so that aid may be signalled.

The gross area of the United States is 3,628,789 square miles.

An Aid To Cultivation

Wireless Has Brought Remarkable Results to English Gardener.

There is an allotment at West Bedford, two miles southeast of Nottingham, England, where tomato plants are giving tremendous yields, out of all proportion to any others in the locality, where hollyhocks laden with plant blossoms, are approaching ten feet in height, and where sweet peas are so prolific that they are the wonder of the district says "The London Mail."

The owner, William Boot, who is the rolling stock superintendent of the Nottingham Corporation Tramways, attributes it to the fact that by chance last year he fixed copper wires, accidentally insulating them, on which to train his tomato plants. To his astonishment these plants made vigorous growth and the fruit ripening while that on the plants of other growers was still green.

Searching for the cause, he said, he came to the conclusion that he had by insulating his copper training wires, brought wireless to his aid in cultivation. When he developed this theory by fixing miniature wireless apparatus, properly insulated over other growing plants he found confirmation of his theory in the results.

The results stimulated growth in a manner which leaves all other fertilizers behind. When the proximity of the Nottingham broadcasting station has anything to do with Mr. Boot's remarkable results has yet to be determined.

Queerest Dog Show Held In England

Only Worst Looking Mongrels Stood Chance of Winning Prize.

One of the queerest dog shows ever held to be held, took place at the charming little township of Portlock in Somersetshire, England. The prizes were solely for the worst specimens of the doggy race which the exhibitors could produce. The exhibitors certainly did their best to get into the front row. So prizes were awarded for the ugliest dog.

Dog with the most spots.

Dog with the shortest nose.

Dog with the bandiest legs.

Dog with the largest mouth.

Dog with the most sympathetic eyes.

No superior nose-in-the-air thoroughbred was allowed to take part in the show. The worse the mongrel the better his or her chance for winning a prize. Badness became a recognized virtue, and features at which an ordinary show judge would have held up his hands in horror induced the judge to beam with satisfaction, to pat the exhibit on the head and to award it a prize.

The competition was promoted by Cecil Aldin, the well-known horse and dog artist.

Captain Bernier, for 22 years in the polar regions north of Canada in his early boat Arctic, which since 1907 has cruised hundreds of thousands of miles in the dangerous waters of Greenland, Labrador, Hudson's Bay, Baffin Land and similar regions, has given up his faith in the future of the Hudson's Bay route to Europe.

"I believe it is the route of tomorrow," he told newspapermen in Toronto.

"It will be a great thing for the north country, if a railway goes in there and opens it up. I consider the Hudson's Bay route, the Hudson's Bay route and the establishment of a port on the bay a matter that concerns the best interests of the country."

"The people of the West will use the railway, they will be the ones that will benefit from it. They should be the ones to decide on the building of a harbor."

"Nelson will take a lot of money to make into a satisfactory port," Captain Bernier went on. "Churchill is much better. At Churchill they can build their sea walls, and so forth on solid rock so that it will stay. At Nelson they can only build on clay which means that they will have to put in a foundation first."

Captain Bernier has a profound faith in the future of the north country, he believes that there are vast resources in mineral and other wealth to be obtained by enterprise.

Asked as to his opinion about the length of the strait which the Hudson's strait is open for navigation, Captain Bernier said: "For a boat which cannot encounter ice at the season is limited to three months. But for boats that are built like the whaler, and so forth, a season of from four to five months ought to be possible."

Captain Bernier has now completed his 60th year at sea. "I have been at sea for 58 years," he said. "I was captain at 17—pretty young, eh?"

His one regret was that he was never able to make the North Pole expedition. He has all ready to set out in 1904, he says. He had provisions arranged for six years, and plans worked out to the minutest detail. But something came along that disrupted his schemes, and now he is afraid it is too late. "I wouldn't mind setting out now," he confided, "if I thought I could last long enough to carry it off successfully."

Captain Bernier has had the remarkable luck of cruising around in the dangerous north 22 years and never having a serious accident with his trusty ship. "In time, by watching the action of the ice, one comes to have a wonderful knowledge of it," he said. "The important thing for an explorer to learn is that he must work with nature. Even Amundsen, who has travelled so much in Arctic regions, has sometimes made the mistake of not calculating far enough ahead, and being sure he had natural forces working on his side."

Cannot Explain Phenomena

Area in B.C. Where Vegetation Attains Unusually High Proportions.

A region on Vancouver Island where men "get marvelous" complexion, a sort of rose fairness," is described by Francis Dickie, the author, who has spent many years collecting data on the wonders of this part of the Pacific coast.

"This marvel," he says, "is easily explained by the possibility of a sun of arc length in the water. There is another spot on the west coast of Vancouver Island where dead matter such as fish and meat, does not decay when thrown upon the ground. This apparent miracle has also probably a chemical explanation."

"Again, in another part, the vegetation attains enormous proportions, wild grass growing to the size of marbles, and the wild berries large in proportion. In this same region, on the Brooks peninsula, are to be found a whole forest of hemlock trees with abnormal branches; the branches grow (thick) towards the ends, and then give off clusters of rootlike little branches. The explanation of this phenomena has yet to be volunteered."

Corn In Western Canada

Area to Grow Increased by Over 400 Per Cent in Ten Years.

Greater interest than ever is being taken in the production of corn in the prairie provinces. According to a preliminary estimate of the Canadian Government Statistics there were 175,000 acres planted to corn in the Prairie Provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta—in 1926, an increase of 7,340 acres over last year. The progress which has been made in corn growing in the Prairie Provinces has been remarkable. Ten years ago Manitoba had only 9,380 acres planted to corn, yielding 27,000 bushels; Saskatchewan, 2,252 acres, yielding 5,900 tons; and Alberta, 675 acres yielding 1,700 tons; a total acreage of 12,278 acres and a total yield of 24,600 tons for the three provinces. The acreage planted to corn in the Prairie Provinces has in the decade increased by over 400 per cent.

Wheat is being produced commercially 700 miles north of the international line and corn is already recognized crop 250 miles north of the United States border, with its sphere steadily extending.

History In Far North

Seeking To Determine Evidence of Norse Settlements in Labrador.

We speak of Arctic "wastes," but the word is hardly appropriate. The far north home with life. In brief, summer seeds flowers blooming on the edge of the ice fields. And it has its appeal for the archaeologist as well as for the cartographer and the naturalist. Along with the delineation of lands newly discovered may go exploration to solve a riddle of history. That is to work to which Donald B. MacMillan has been devoting himself. He has been seeking to determine whether or not there are evidences of Norse settlements in Labrador to supplement the undoubted evidences of the Greenland occupation. Further effort in this direction may add an interesting chapter to world history by showing what caused the disappearance of the Norsemen who are known to have been settled in Greenland for the space of several centuries.

Saskatchewan Livestock

Saskatchewan's livestock has an estimated value of $125,112,000, while the value of livestock and livestock products for the year ending April 30, 1926, is given at $16,000,000, according to a statement made by the Provincial Livestock Commissioner. There are approximately 1,177,599 head of horses and mules in the province, 1,500,000 head of cattle, 131,250 head of sheep and 610,732 head of swine.

Increase In Apple Shipments

Including all kinds of shipments from boxes to air-lifted into shipments of Canadian apples to European points this year will exceed by 50 per cent the exports of any previous year since the war. This is the estimate of J. B. Sutherland, general foreign agent of the Canadian Pacific Express.

Human Traits of Black Bear

(1) Bear cub stepping out. (2) Black bear family in native haunt.

It's a "fifty-fifty" proposition with Canadian black bear, the most popular wild animal in the parks of the Canadian Rockies. They have not received much instruction but have exhibited an ever-increasing curiosity about man's affairs. In the vicinity of Banff and Lake Louise they have become so tame that it is a common sight to see them amble along the roads, and even stop for a sign of recognition from the tourists. An English lady was visiting Chateau Lake Louise, in the Canadian Rockies, and desired to see a bear. She chose a thirty spot and waited and waited, but in vain. Later when out on a stroll she came upon a belthrop with a bottle of milk. She watched without making her presence known. Soon a bear appeared with two cubs. The boy approached fearfully and gave the cub a drink. When, however, he tried to take the bottle away in order to share it with the other cub, the cub refused. The mother bear asserted her authority and gave the obnoxious cub a wallop. This settled the dispute, and only demonstrated one of the many most human instincts of the black bear.

Wheat Pool Membership

Over Ten Million Acres Now Under Contract in Saskatchewan.

A report issued by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool under date of September 24th, shows that 1,978 new wheat contracts covering 670,164 acres have been signed since June 11th, 1926, bringing the membership of the Wheat Pool to 77,547 and a total acreage under contract is now well over ten million acres. During the same period 1,448 new contracts were signed for the Coarse Grain Pool bringing its membership up to 37,052 and the acreage under contract, barley, flax and rye to a total of over 2,600,000. Saskatchewan Wheat Pool now has 276 country elevators in operation and it is proposed to build 35 others during the season, six of which are already under construction. In one day during September the pool elevators in Saskatchewan handled nearly 1,500,000 bushels of wheat.

Japanese Rulers Grow Their Own Vegetables

Gardens Occupy Many Acres and Include Several Hotbeds.

All the fruits and vegetables for the dining tables of the Emperor and Empress, Prince Regent and Princesses Nakako, are grown in the Shinjuku Palace gardens by expert gardeners and every day inspected in order that no taint may be permitted to reach the imperial stomachs. The gardens occupy several acres and include a number of large hotbeds. All varieties of vegetables are raised during the entire year. When the royal family is away on vacation, these special vegetables and hotbeds are sent to them daily in ice-packed private cars.

A Super-Barometer

Saskatchewan Creamery Butter

Reported Sixteen Per Cent Increase in Production Over Last Year.

Production of creamery butter in Saskatchewan during August and September of 1926 was 2,252,492 lbs., as compared with 2,247,382 in the same month a year ago, according to a report issued by the Provincial Dairy Commissioner. The cumulative production for the first eight months of this year is 12,433,654 lbs., compared with 11,593,642 lbs., an increase of 16 per cent in the corresponding period of 1925.

Buttermakers of Saskatchewan were particularly successful with their exhibits at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto and the Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa this year. At both exhibitions the prizes were awarded to the group system and Saskatchewan buttermakers were near the top of the list in practically every class. At the Canadian National Show, Saskatchewan won 17 prizes, seven of which were firsts.

The Opportune Moment For Immigration Effort

By C. W. Peterson

It is clear as daylight that the psychological moment for Canada to launch a comprehensive colonization campaign is when her agriculture has definitely entered the upward swing. Western history and the experience of those who have been in close touch with colonization work there, point unmistakably to the fact that failure on the land is the greatest obstacle to the efforts of the various agencies devoting time and money to furthering immigration into Canada. It is also a trite saying, but in strict accordance with the truth, that the successful settler is our most effective colonization agent. Common sense upholds both of these assertions. Canada can now with confidence enter the field with a vigorous effort to largely augment her producing population and with the added assurance that in no period of her history were the opportunities more favorable for getting the fullest possible value for her expenditure on that object.

The time is favorable for a great, forward looking colonization and agricultural development policy, because agriculture is undoubtedly now in the process of entering an era of greater prosperity. It is estimated that there is a total world area of 13 million acres of arable lands and that it takes the products of 2½ acres to sustain each head of population. This would provide the bare necessities of life for 4,200 million people. It is estimated that with the present rate of increase this number would be reached well within a century, so that babies now being born witness the struggle of mankind for bare existence or wholesale starvation in years of extended crop failure. Of course, such a calamity will be averted. The present world-wide decrease in birth rate is nature's corrective.

Agriculture the world over has developed through the crude, ruthless directive agency of the law of supply and demand. The farmers have, in subservience to this law, for several decades suffered through demoralized prices due to an over-supply of agricultural products. But the reaction is now upon us—the pendulum is swinging the other way, and we have definitely entered an era when food products of all kinds will command a premium in the world's markets. It would be absurd to argue that in the face of constantly rising and soaring prices, which will be maintained through the organization of industrial labor, prices of the basic necessities of life should decrease. I repeat that agricultural returns for the next half century will rise to an increasingly satisfactory level. This tendency is well on the way even now.

This prediction is not visionary. It has a definite, historical basis. Wheat, Canada's great staple export, is more, or less, the controlling factor in all agricultural prices. The comparatively low wheat prices that have prevailed until the present couple of years cannot be regarded as in any way normal. Canada now enjoys a virtual monopoly of the sole remaining, undeveloped hard wheat areas. Our wheat should, consequently, command a considerable premium in the world's market. Europe consumes about 600 million bushels of imported wheat annually. She now produces 50 per cent of the world wheat crop. About 2½ million bushels, she imports only about 25 per cent, consequently, the European peasant virtually is the controlling factor in world wheat prices. Because for every bushel of overseas wheat placed on the world's bargain counter, two bushels of European wheat must be sacrificed, and there is a very distinct limit to the ability of the European peasant to sell his products below cost. He must turn his attention to something else, which he will do and prices will go up. Aside from the economies of the wheat situation, there is nothing in history to warrant the belief that prices will not remain permanently on the satisfactory basis of the last two years, which will ensure reasonable agricultural prosperity to Canada for years to come.

Is Good Quarry Manager

British Woman Says It Is Very Fascinating Occupation

Mrs. Anne Graves, a British woman who has been a quarry manager for some time, says: "It may seem that quarrying is a strange business for a woman, but why shouldn't women run quarries?" asked Mrs. Graves. "Of course I have a foreman and plenty of men workers to assist me, but I go into the quarry myself and inspect the seams and direct the methods to be used in getting out the sand and gravel. Stone has become so expensive that I have developed a plant which makes artificial stone and is doing a good business. I find quarrying is a very fascinating occupation."

She also writes: "I have found that quarrying is a very fascinating occupation. It may seem that quarrying is a strange business for a woman, but why shouldn't women run quarries?" asked Mrs. Graves. "Of course I have a foreman and plenty of men workers to assist me, but I go into the quarry myself and inspect the seams and direct the methods to be used in getting out the sand and gravel. Prussians Eating Horse Meat
Not From Choice But Economic Conditions Make It Necessary
More horse meat is being eaten in Berlin today than at any other time in history, not excluding the war period when horses were slaughtered because there was little other meat available.

The Ministry of Agriculture reports that the increased consumption is not due to a great relish for horse steaks, but to distressing economic conditions. The consumption of horse flesh increased 20 per cent this year over the corresponding period in 1925.

The only previous air service between London and Berlin was for a few months in 1922 when British planes maintained a tri-weekly service.

Montreal shipping men were reminded of the old days when Montreal harbor was filled with sailing vessels and timber ships, when a model of the good hulk Suowdrop was presented to the Navy League of Canada on the "Cairn-Thompson" freighter, the Cairn Line of Steamships, Limited. This model, together with a smaller one of the Cairnmore, was formally given to the League's president, Mr. Sam Harris, by Col. W. L. Gear, vice-president of the Robert Reford Co., Limited.

The presentation took place on July 27th and attending it were many well-known shipping men and members of the League. Among the guests were Dr. Milton Hersey, Mr. T. W. Harvie, Mr. T. P. Triller, Captain Symon, Captain Millett, of the Port of London Authority, who was visiting the Port of Montreal; Captain Brown, and other commissioners and port wardens as well as members of the Press and officials of the Robert Reford Co.

In the presentation address Col. Gear outlined the growth of Canada's export and trade and showed how the Cairn line, owners of the Thompson line, had consistently kept in mind the requirements of the Canadian trade. Every new requirement was made adequately in the latest improvements on each freighter. He reminded his audience that the Cairn line of steamships was the first to introduce refrigeration in the Canadian trade, and from the position of pioneers in cold storage facilities on board ships, had maintained a foremost place in the realm of ocean freight transportation.

Col. Gear reminded his guests of the difficulties under which shipowners in England were operating at the time when he introduced the Cairn line, in order to be able to handle the trip to Montreal, had been compelled to proceed to Hamburg to fit her coal bunkers. Since the beginning of the war, however, it has been difficult to secure sufficient coal in British ports.

He also mentioned the models to Mr. Harris he stated they were built by the builders of the ship they were being given to the Cairn line and presented to the League as mark of courtesy.

A Youthful Cabinet

Present One Is Youngest of Any Since Confederation

An Ottawa writer asserts that the King cabinet is the youngest Canadian cabinet since Confederation. That is, the ages of its eighteen members average less than those of any other. The average is 52 years, the age of the premier, Mr. Robt. is the oldest minister and he is no patriarch, being only 67. The baby of the cabinet is Lurton Cannon, 39. Mr. Cannon is three years older than Sir Wilfrid Laurier was when he entered the Mackenzie cabinet in 1877, and six years older than Sir Charles Hildbert Tupper was when he entered the Mackenzie cabinet in 1888.

JOSHUA, ISRAEL'S NEW LEADER

Golden Text: Be strong and of good courage. . . . For Jehovah thy God with thee, whithersoever thou goest. Joshua, 1:9.
Lesson: Numbers, 27:18-20, Joshua, 1:1-9.

Devotional Reading: Proverbs, 21:8.

Explanations and Comments

1. Joshua Appointed the Successor of Moses; Numbers 27:18-20.—Every prophet had an attendant, and Joshua was the attendant of Moses. We have heard about him in Ex. 17:16; 18:3; 24:13; 32:17; 33:11; Num. 11:28; 13:16; 14:6-9; 27:18; 31:7; Dt. 1:38; 3:28; 34:9. As he was one of the spies sent into Canaan from Kadesh thirty-eight years before this, he must have been at least sixty years old when Moses died. He was a trained military leader, just the man that was needed to direct the Israelites in their conquest of Canaan, and when Moses was about to lay down his command he anointed Joshua as his successor. The new leader's outstanding characteristics were that he was a man in whom was the Spirit, qualified to carry out God's will. It is interesting to recall that the name "Joshua" is but the later form of the name "Jesus."

"When a man and woman have the Spirit, God's work can be done. We can get on without learning, we cannot get on without inspiration. A man with one talent and the Spirit can do infinitely more than a man with ten talents without it. Faith, love, and the Spirit are the three things that God uses to do His work. The Spirit is the first thing God looks for, for it is the prime necessity of a powerful and efficient life." (Dr. J. H. Jowett).

Fourteen per cent of the students in women's colleges work their way through school, a survey indicates.

CHAPTER XVII.

John

To make Joanna's appearance a dramatic entrance, openly stage managed, was not an imprudent idea. The entrance of Yvonne's, Joanna had expected nothing of the kind. She waited, unsuspecting, in her white and gold boudoir. Yvonne had said: "Give them time to decide what to do. I will be there. Then the few in whom you will be most interested will take you in hand."

When a muffled portiere-posted to catch Yvonne's signal, informed Joanna that she was expected, she hurried down the stairs from the upper floor and onto the balcony, from which the grand staircase descended. She was still framed in the doorway when she realized that the people in the great room below were waiting for her, Joanna, their faces uplifted.

She caught her breath. A hand held nervously to her throat. She would have drawn back, but instantly realized that she was too late. Yvonne caught her glance and with a not restrained her.

Then exhilaration leaped through her stirred pulses. The carnival spirit of the scene below reached up to her, and she composed her. A new ecstasy of happiness quivered at her finger tips, in her toes and throughout the vibrant warmth of her. This was to be her setting, symbol of the scintillating life of which her life was to be forever shaped. These people, people of her new world, were waiting down there to welcome her among them and their kind! Bravo! Bravo came into

STRATFORD WOMAN

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Stratford, Ontario. — "After my first baby was born I started to work on the tenth day and did a lot of work on the twelfth day. Being so young I was married in 1910. I don't know what was the matter, so let it go until I was all run-down, weak, nervous, and had a bad displacement. For nearly two years I could not sleep and I would always complain of having 'hot' headaches, but a brain ache. My mother is taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and she recommended it to me. After taking two bottles I was able to sleep and to feel better and I have never felt off since then, except for about three months ago when I have taken thirty bottles since my second baby was born. I think I was a little better after I had terrible pains with my first three children and very few with my fourth as I was so much stronger. I am now able to do my work alone, but I am still taking the Compound as I am a nursing baby. — Mrs. Edna F. H. 409 Cherry Street, Stratford, Ontario.

If you are suffering from any weakness which causes such symptoms as pains in the side and back and nervous feelings, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

to her companion loud enough to be overheard.

"One of Teddy's best points is that he can love a woman as he has carried that one, without musing her." John's face grew a little whiter, and his fingers twitched nervously. He saw that when Teddy had put her down and she lingered for a moment around the girl; that he held her close to him while he whispered and that Joanna brushed his cheek with the back of her hand playfully. The woman whom John had overheard spoke again: "Teddy is beginning a campaign. He always does it with a whisper. Who over then girl is, and whatever she is, there are some people here tonight who will hate her—Teddy shows signs of following up, that little tale!"

John turned to look at the speaker. She returned his glance and stared at what she saw in his face. Then she was amused. She said something to her companion, a man who quite evidently would not be her husband. He surveyed John curiously. He spoke to his companion in a low tone. "Yes, you are probably right. He's in love with the girl. Odd looking chap, but one who would make trouble if he felt like it."

Both Brandon and John sought to make their way to where Joanna stood, the centre of a throng of men and women, some fascinated, and some frowning, by her anxious beauty and freshness, and others paying their sympathetic dues to Yvonne by fawning upon her protegee. But neither reached her side before she was whisked into a dance by Lord Fyde. He surrendered her, after a few turns, to others who pressed forward for the privilege.

Men were fulsome in their compliments. The mystery of her was the intriguing subject to which everyone lent along the route of conversation. Personal things, things the men murmured softly while she awayed close with them to the music, or whispered so that her ears alone caught them. It had been decided by Yvonne that the history of her sudden shower of gold from an unknown benefactor should not be told. Kenneth and Brandon, and the few others of Yvonne's intimates who knew, agreed to keep the secret. Dormister had not been taken into anyone's confidence as to Joanna's wealth. The men who made their devotion to her, and the women who were curiously attracted to her, gave up their efforts to fathom her after failing in such aims as: "Have you known Yvonne Countess a very long time? Do you belong in the York or are you from elsewhere?" The men returned gleefully to their sentimental venturings.

When a score of toasts in punch had been drunk to him, and she had flitted from one pair of arms to another in the dancing, Joanna became conscious of an unfamiliar quality in the murmured admirations heaped upon her. She had been accustomed to the tentative problems of the platonic in her old crowd, and their frankly said and usually sincerely meant flatteries. "You're a swell girl!" was what she had learned to expect. Her acknowledgment customarily was prompted by a smile. "Is that the best line you've got?" She knew the danger of the threat, or the safety, in every compliment, as her dancing boys paid them, and she usually she gulped them away from the edge. But now she felt that her wit must grapple for new understandings. The men who captured her for a few fleeting moments using their adulations in a more elusive melody. The words of their praises seemed harmless; but she sensed new meanings. Roddy Kenneth took both her hands and held her a little way from him, and looked at her. All that he said, was: "You are very pretty tonight. That dress you are wearing must have been created just for you by a really great artist."

Nothing more. Yet Joanna was conscious that she trembled, and conscious, too, that she had been faithful to the present day mode which required that underneath that dress she wear but a single garment, so delicate and sheer that it almost blended into her skin. Roddy said only that she was pretty and her dress becoming. Yet she understood that the man who was speaking, and who had basted her but a few nights before with the threat of his pursuit of her, already wanted to take her slim body into his arms and crush it. She decided she would have to strengthen her battlements. She had learned to make her lips provocative, and use her knowledge boldly and audaciously. She had the sense that in this order of life, so different from the domain of the silk counter and its flirtations, it was much more dangerous to be provocative.

Little Helps For This Week

Jim that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.—John vi. 37.

The beckoning of a Father's hand we follow. His love alone is there, no curse, no care.

The painter smiled at her in return, and said "I find you a child in the old time."

She paused a little before she replied: "I had children in love, but none that were born mine."

"It is the same," he said—"It is the same; and if one of them had sinned against you, injured you, done wrong against you, would you have cast him out, or would you have done?"

"Oh!" said the little pilgrim again, with a vivid light of memory coming into her face, which showed she had not thought of him as something that might have happened, but knew, "I brought him home; I nursed him well again; I prayed for him night and day. Did you say 'cast him out'?"

"Then you had loved him?"

"Then you think you love better than our Father," he said.

Made Whole Suit in Record Time

Remarkable Fact Accomplished by Plumber Woman in 1864

The story of a woman's feat—a woman of the days of 1864—has been told by a correspondent of the "Toronto papers, brought to public interest by the fact that a woolen overcoat was 'assembled' in such record time at the National Exhibition.

"Emiline Wilkinson, living near the village of Hawley, Ont., had a brother who volunteered to enlist in the Northern army. He received notice to report at a certain place in the United States at a certain time. His wardrobe, however, was scanty, and he required a suit of clothes in which to make the journey. The Wilkinson family was a thrifty family and bought nothing which they could make themselves. They had a flock of sheep in which were several black ones. Emiline caught one of the black sheep (possibly two), skinned the sheep, washed the wool, carded the wool, spun the wool, wove the wool into cloth, cut the cloth and made a suit of clothes for her brother. All the work from the first to last was done by her in her home. In one week from the time the sheep was caught, the brother, wearing the suit of clothes, was on his way to the United States.

CHILDREN LIKE

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Because They Are Tasteless and Are Easy to Take

One of the strongest points in favor of any medicine for children is that it is so agreeable that the mother does not have to force it down the little one's throat.

Baby's Own Tablets have no drug taste, may be crushed to a powder if desired, and are perfectly safe for their contain no opiate or narcotic. They sweeten the stomach and remove the cause of fretfulness.

Art. Arthur Charlton, Pawtucket, R.I., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets to be a gentle laxative and a safe remedy for stomach disorders in children. Our little boy had been given harsh cathartics but these tablets worked more effectively without the severe griping. I can recommend them to all mothers of little children."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Turkish Man Ordered by Governor to Work in Field

On a tour of investigation among the villages of the Black Sea region, the governor found that farm work was being done by women, while the lords and masters sat in the village coffee houses smoking and gossiping.

The Governor gave orders to the mayor of each village in this district that every able bodied man should be forced to work in the fields during the day and that none should be allowed to sit in the coffee houses during the hours when the women were toiling.

cases ended in death. So a recent Canadian investigation showed. These were not cases of infectious disease—a common assumption—of typhoid. They were cases where a person had sustained some slight injury—a cut, a burn, a wire-prick—and where the wound, being thought not serious enough for careful treatment, had been neglected. Blood poisoning and death resulted. When you or your children sustain any injury, ensure against infection by applying Zam-Buk. Invitations That The Prince Cannot Decline

Some Public Dinners Which He Is Obliged to Attend

The Prince of Wales is so snowed under by invitations to dinners that he has been compelled to impose a limit on acceptances. He was invited to attend the annual dinner of the Incorporated Society of Auctioneers and Landed Property Agents and his private secretary wrote to explain why the prince could not be there.

From the prince's viewpoint, public dinners fall roughly in three categories—that which have national or imperial character, those organized by bodies herewith he has direct personal connection and those held by independent societies which exist for promotion of one particular science, art or trade.

The number of annual dinners in the first two categories, at which the prince's presence is practically indispensable, has increased to such an extent that it is now almost impossible for him to attend to those belonging to the third list.

A Narrow Escape

A Scotchman and his wife were looking around the flying field, and decided they would like to try a flight. The Scotchman walked up to an aviator who was sitting in a plane and said:

"How much does it cost to go up in one of them things?"

"Fifteen dollars," the aviator replied.

"Too much," said the Scotchman. "I'll give you five dollars."

The aviator had sporting blood in him, so he proposed:

"I'll tell you what I will do. I'll take you and your wife up, and if you don't yell before we come down, it will cost you nothing."

"All right," agreed the Scot.

So up they went. They turned the loop the loop, the hand spring, and every other fancy turn in the aviator's repertoire. Finally they descended.

"Well, I guess you win," said the aviator. "You didn't yell once."

"No," said the Scotchman, "but I almost did, when my wife fell out."

Mr. Coldheart—"I hang them up carefully at night and go to bed. Then I put them on again in the morning."

Mrs.—"I must dress at once, dear, the Browns are coming here this evening. Should I put on the percolator?"

Mr.—"Oh, don't bother, you're dressed good enough the way you are."

"Oh," said the woman, sweetly, "now you're handicapped!"

Canada has now ten thousand square miles of the most magnificent territory in the Dominion set apart as national recreation areas. Few countries in the world have made such generous provision for out door recreation and pleasure.

Canada's production of celat totalled 1,116,492 pounds valued at $2,828,517 during 1925 as against 946,704 pounds valued at $1,688,385 in 1924, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Every part of the country, with the exception of some of the Maritime sections, shows a higher total of building contracts awarded for the first seven months of the year the aggregate value for the Dominion being $228,408,800 as compared with $147,723,600 for the same period last year.

"Dean Inge has a very imperfect appreciation of the feeling of India towards England, when he prophesies that India's attitude to the Mother Country in the event of a future crisis, is doubtful," declared Diwan Bahadur Sir T. The Diwan discounted the gloomy prophecies contained in Dean Inge's new book entitled "England."

For the third consecutive year the first aid team of the Canadian Pacific Police Constabulary at the Windsor Street Station, Montreal, carried off the "Gutellus Cup" symbolic of the highest marks obtained in the Quebec District C.P.R. first aid competition. The examinations were conducted at the Place Viger Hotel in Montreal, September 29th by Dr. Beatty, chief surgeon of the Canadian Pacific. ## CANADA'S NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL ARRIVES

1.—Crown sketch of Viscount Willingdon drawn on board Empress of Scotland, just prior to the vessel sailing for Canada.

2.—Crown sketch of Viscount Willingdon drawn on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland just prior to the vessel's departure for Canada.

3.—Many (insert) Crown sketch of Viscount Willingdon drawn on board the Empress of Scotland just prior to the vessel's departure for Canada.

4.—Menu card designed for use on Empress of Scotland when the Governor-General to Canada, showing a map of the world the various positions held all over by the Empress by Viscount Willingdon.

5.—Canadian Pacific Flagship Empress of Scotland which carried the Lord Bessborough to Canada.

The Excellencies Viscount and Viscountess Willingdon made many friends on their voyage from England to Quebec on board the Canadian Pacific Flagship Empress of Scotland, when His Lordship came here in October to become Governor-General of the Dominion. They paid visits to all parts of the vessel chatting with new settlers for Canada and presiding at the various functions that take place aboard ship during an ocean voyage. Sharing their popularity was their Cairn Stewart, who was gentle with everyone except perhaps a plump Chow who looked to him as though he might develop into a dangerous rival.

Canada's thirteenth Governor-General had a fine reception when the ship docked at Quebec. He struck a careful note when he told his French-Canadian audience he too could claim descent from the Normans and that French blood flowed in his veins equally as in theirs. "In this country," he said, "the descendants of our two races have worked for many years under the British Crown for a common purpose and object, namely, to promote the welfare and prosperity of the people of this wonderful country."

First impressions are vital in establishing successful relations and perhaps no impression gave so cordial an effect as one of His Lordship's speeches aboard the Empress of Scotland, which was broadcast all over Canada. In it he said: "I wonder if I may venture to add one word of rather an intimate and personal character. It is this—in wishing all my fellow-passengers the best of good luck in the future and all health and happiness they can possibly expect and obtain, may I ask them one and all to give an occasional thought—a kindly thought—to one who is about to undertake very grave responsibilities for the British Empire in the great Dominion of Canada."

That is the true democratic note, sounded with modesty and feeling and sure of an unreserved response throughout its length and breadth of Canada.
